

About AIRWORK

New Zealand has one of the oldest, strongest and most diverse aviation traditions of any country in the world. This was born of necessity with its varied topography, its isolation from the rest of the world, and its heavy dependence upon land-based economic activities. Airwork is one of New Zealand's oldest aviation companies and reflects these traditions. Since its humble beginnings, Airwork has grown into a truly global company with operations and partnerships located around the world. Owning a fleet of 50 helicopters we are a prominent supplier of helicopter operations, pilots, aircraft leasing and maintenance, repair and overhaul. This fleet is engaged in contracts ranging from emergency and police operations to commercial operations and oil exploration projects in bases throughout, New Zealand, Australia, Pacific, South America and Africa. These operations are supported by 24/7 engineering coverage including a $25m parts inventory stock holding for a variety of helicopter types.
